RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE OPIUM DEPARTMENT FOR 1901-1902.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—OPIUM.

Darjeeling, the 16th April 1903.

RESOLUTION—No. 49T.—R.

READ—

The Report on the Annual Administration of the Opium Department for the year 1901-1902 (1st November 1901 to 31st October 1902).

The inconvenience of having different years for factory and administrative purposes having been brought to the notice of Government, the period of the opium administrative year, which runs from September to August, was, with the sanction of the Government of India, altered so as to correspond with the factory year running from November to October. In consequence of this change, and with the sanction of the Government of India, the date for the submission by this Government of the Annual Administration Report of the Opium Department was altered from the 1st March to the 1st April, and the Board were authorized to submit their Report to this Government on the 1st March, instead of on the 1st February, as hitherto. The Board's present Report has been prepared in accordance with the changes sanctioned, and it was submitted to Government on the 6th March. The tables appended to the Report have been prepared on the lines finally approved by the Government of India in their orders of the 25th October 1902.

2. In the Bihar Agency, Mr. Bright received charge from Mr. Blyth on the 16th April, and held the appointment during the remainder of the year. In Benares Mr. Baillie proceeded on leave on the 9th July, and Mr. House officiated for him till the close of the year. The Hon'ble Mr. Bolton, who was in charge of the Miscellaneous Revenue Department of the Board from 25th November 1901 to 25th May 1902, made a useful tour of inspection through several districts in the Benares Agency. Messrs. Baillie and House, who held charge of that Agency in succession during the year, between them spent 196 days on tour, inspecting all the divisions in the Agency and more than half the subdivisions. On the other hand, the tour of the Opium Agent of Bihar was very short. Ill health interfered with Mr. Blyth's tour, while Mr. Bright, who took charge after the completion of the cold weather and was unacquainted with the working of the Department, was necessarily detained a good deal at head-quarters The Board notice the mechanical nature of the inspections made of some Assistants' offices in the Benares Agency. The Lieutenant-Governor endorses their opinion that a brief tour in an Assistant's charge is likely to convey a fairer estimate of the state of the work than the perusal of office records only, while it conduces to more effective supervision. His Honour also concurs in the view that such tours are particularly beneficial, and should be arranged in subdivisions where the Assistants are known to be inexperienced.

3. There was some improvement in check-measurements in both Agencies, due to the fact that the number of officers employed on this work was greater than in the preceding year. The percentage of the area test-measured to the total measured cultivation is, however, still very low in Bihar, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that this matter will receive especial attention in future. His Honour is glad to observe that the Board will henceforth call for and submit information regarding the proportion of cases in which the area recorded by the departmental subordinates was found to be incorrect.

4. In the Bihar Agency there was a further small decrease in the area which the raiyats engaged to cultivate. This decline was general in all the sub-agencies, except Bettiah, Hazaribagh, and Tirhut. The reasons given for the decrease are various, but none of the explanations given appear to be altogether satisfactory. The most important feature of the year has been the introduction throughout the Bihar Agency of the alternative system of direct payment to the raiyats, and the Lieutenant-Governor has read with interest the Agent's remarks upon its merits, quoted by the Board in their Report. The decrease in the area settled in the Benares Agency in 1900-1901 was to some extent made good during the year under review. While the proportion of failures due to non-fulfilment of engagements in this Agency was far less than in Bihar, the total area so lost was considerably in excess of that reported in the previous year.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with pleasure that there has been a marked improvement in the Benares Agency in the proportion of personal attendance of cultivators at settlements. The results in Bihar are, however, disappointing. His Honour agrees with the Board that until the raiyats abandon their reliance upon the khatadar in favour of personal attendance, one of the main objects of the alternative system still remains unachieved.

6. The year was characterised by a failure of the rains in both Agencies. In Bihar, south of the Ganges, the season was not discouraging, but north of the river, especially in Bettiah and Motihari, it was most dispiriting. In Benares the absence of rain delayed sowings: blight appeared in several districts, and some damage was caused to the crop by hail in Ghazipur and Sitapur. As compared with the averages for the preceding seven years, the average outturn per bigha showed a decline of 10 chitaks in the Bihar Agency and a rise of 7 chitaks in Benares. There was a marked falling off in the amount of Nepal opium brought into the three frontier sub-agencies in Bihar, although another weighment centre was opened at Umgaon, in the Darbhanga district. The decline is attributed to the failure of the season in Nepal owing to drought. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that the advances made in both Agencies for the construction and repair of wells were considerably in excess of those made in the preceding year. His Honour agrees with the Board's remark that the figures given in regard to Bihar indicate a satisfactory and substantial advance on the available means of irrigation. In the Benares Agency the figures for the year in this respect exceeded all previous records, with the exception of those for the famine year of 1896-1897. The amendment of the rules regulating well advances has, it is explained, facilitated their distribution in this Agency.

7. It is satisfactory that the process of manufacture was not complicated, as in the preceding year, by the low consistence of the drug available. The average consistence at each factory was slightly in excess of the standards fixed.

8. The expenditure for the year under review shows an increase of over six lakhs in the Bihar Agency, and of about seven thousand rupees in Benares. The increase in Bihar is due to the larger outturn and the high consistence of the drug

9. During the calendar year 1902, 48,000 chests of provision opium were sold in equal proportions from Bihar and Benares. As compared with the results of the previous 12 months, the average prices of Bihar and Benares opium realized from November 1901 to October 1902 showed a decrease of Rs. 170 and Rs. 176 per chest, respectively—a result which is said to be mainly due to the fall in the exchange value of silver. The total outturn of provision opium during the year was 44,724 chests. There will be a reserve of 15,024 chests on the 1st of January 1904.

10. The Board's proposal to abolish the system of khurchan, so far as the Benares Agency is concerned, is under the consideration of Government. The experiment of using the survey maps and records in connection with opium measurements was undertaken, during the year, in one kothi of the Tirhut Sub-Agency. The Board have not yet come to any final conclusion in the matter, but it is stated that the Departmental officers are not favourably impressed with the plan. The Lieutenant-Governor will await a further report on this subject.

11. Since the submission of the Board's Report, orders have been received from the Government of India, sanctioning the proposals for the revision of the Opium Manuals. The Government of India have lately been addressed as regards the eligibility of officers of the Opium Department for the appointment of Factory Superintendent, and their orders are awaited.

12 The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank the Board for their efficient administration of the Opium Department during the year under review.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH 1903.

WEATHER during March was more frequently unsettled than usual; but the disturbances were slight, and were more noticeable in the south than the north of the Province. The local disturbances were caused by shallow depressions moving as usual eastward over Bengal, and rainfall was of almost daily occurrence in Lower Bengal between the 4th and 9th and between the 21st and 28th. There was also fairly general rainfall in the southern districts on the 13th. The heaviest rainfall occurred in East Bengal between the 26th and 28th, and was probably due to the rapid fall of pressure of those days and the development of a depression over Lower Bengal with a steep pressure gradient over the eastern districts.

Rainfall was much lighter in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and only a few scattered showers fell in Orissa except between the 24th and 27th when moderately heavy showers were of more frequent occurrence.

The total fall for the month was 3·2 inches in East Bengal, and 1·8 inches in South-West Bengal, the former nearly 1 inch in excess and the latter about half an inch.

In North Bengal the fall of 1·1 inches was practically normal, and in the western districts there was a relatively large defect varying from ·2 inch in Bihar to ·5 inch in Orissa.

In the early part of the month temperature was in excess by variable amounts up to 8° on the 5th and 6th. With the occurrence of disturbed weather temperature fell, but it was not until the 9th and 10th that the marked fall of temperature occurred, which was due to the eastward advance of a cold wave from the west. On the 8th mean temperature was above the normal over the whole Province, and the greatest excess was 4° to 6° in Lower Bengal. On the 9th there was a general defect of 2°, and on the 10th defect varied from 3° in the south to 8° in North Bengal.

The pressure changes of those days gave no clear indication of the character of the disturbance. A shallow depression was shown over the United Provinces on the 6th, in the Circars and Orissa on the 7th and over the Bay on the 8th, after which it appeared to recurve towards the south-west. Fairly general showers fell in Bengal Proper on the 7th and 9th, but the falls were in nearly all cases light and at only a few stations exceeded 1 inch.

On the 12th pressure was again falling rapidly in the west, and a shallow depression was shown in the United Provinces. On the 13th the depression was in Bengal with a steep pressure gradient to the west. The temporary rise of temperature which had preceded this depression continued until the 15th, when dry cool westerly winds were again general over the Province. On the 13th when pressure was lowest in Bengal, rain fell at most of the stations in Lower Bengal, but only a few scattered showers occurred in other parts of the Province.

The pressure changes of the 15th appear to show that, as in the previous disturbance, the area of lowest pressure recurved southward, but it is impossible to say, when the area of lowest pressure is in the neighbourhood of the Himalayas on the 14th and over the centre of the Bay on the 15th, that the disturbance is the same. Probably the disturbance was in the upper atmosphere, and the position of the centre was imperfectly indicated by the ground level observations.

Temperature continued low until the 18th, and there was still a small defect on the 19th, when weather was again becoming disturbed in the west. On the 20th a very slight depression had developed over the south-western districts. Defect in the central area was only ·05 inch, but rainfall had begun at a few scattered places, and as the depression moved eastward moderate showers fell at most of the stations in East and North Bengal. This depression disappeared over Bengal, and on the 22nd fine cool weather was again general over the Province. Defect was rarely more than 2° except in North Bengal where it ranged up to 10°.

Another disturbance appeared in the west of the Province on the 24th as a shallow diffused depression. Rainfall was general in South-West Bengal, and a few showers fell in Orissa, while a rapid fall of temperature had begun in the west of Bihar, where from being slightly in excess on the 23rd mean temperature was 6° below the normal.

Irregular changes occurred during the subsequent days, pressure rose briskly in Bengal and the depression gradually became diffused over the Bay, but as rainfall continued in East Bengal weather was still unsettled. On the 27th after a rapid fall a centre of low pressure appeared over Lower Bengal, and though there was some recovery on the 30th pressure continued low up to the end of the month. Weather was, however, more settled in the eastern districts, as rainfall had ceased after the 28th and temperature was steadily rising.

Pressure was more unsettled than usual owing to the numerous shallow depressions which either crossed the Province from the west or devolped over Bengal. These depressions, as they usually are in March, were so shallow as almost at times to escape detection by the ordinary 8 A.M. observations, and the disturbances were shown to be of importance more by the rainfall than by pressure changes.

For the month as a whole pressure was below the normal over the Province and the extreme north of the Bay, the greatest defect being ·03 inch in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal. Over the south of the Bay, and especially in the south-west, there was considerable excess in pressure, so that there was throughout the greater part of March a steeper gradient than usual over the north of the Bay. The largest variations were excess of ·06 inch in the south of the Circars and defect of ·04 inch at Midnapore.

Temperature at the beginning of the month was continuously high for some days, and towards the end of the first week was as much as 8° above the normal. The most important change began about the 8th, and by the 10th cool weather was general over the Province, with defect of about 8° in the Northern districts. During the remaining part of the month weather was frequently disturbed, and temperature was low except for brief intervals between the disturbances when a moderate excess developed. At the end of the month mean temperature was practically normal.

The excess in the early part is practically neutralised in the averages for the month by the defect caused by the numerous slight disturbances during the second to fourth weeks. Average maximum temperature differs from the normal by small amounts ranging from excess of 2° in Orissa to defect of 1° in North Bengal and Bihar. The difference from the normal minimum temperature is similar, only smaller, and varies from excess of 1° in Orissa to defect of 1° in North Bengal. For the division as a whole mean defect is between a half and one degree in North and East Bengal and Bihar, practically normal in South-West Bengal and half a degree in excess in Chota Nagpur and Orissa.

Rainfall was more frequent than usual in March, but the falls were in nearly all cases light, and were most frequent in Bengal Proper. The heaviest rainfall of the month occurred in East Bengal about the 27th or 28th. In the western districts there was a not unfrequent tendency to rainfall, but the showers were so light and scattered that the total fall for the month is relatively much lighter than in Bengal Proper. The fall in East Bengal is 3·2 inches, nearly 1 inch in excess, in South-West and East Bengal about 1·2 inches, the former with considerable excess. Orissa received ·7 inch, rather more than half the normal, Chota Nagpur ·4 inch, and Bihar ·16 inch less than half the normal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of March 1903 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly in the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
